LITTLE CHILD DIES FROM OPERATION

John Boyd, the seven year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Shuttleworth died Friday morning (October 26th, at about 10 o'clock, in Evansville. He was born January 30th, 1900.

He was taken ill Sunday. On Wednesday, the disease was pronounced appendicitis and he was removed to the Deaconess Hospital where an operation was performed. Just as soon as the appendix was removed it was seen there was an abscess formed round it. He died from the operation but before he died he was so weakened that he soon died, living only forty hours.

He was a bright little fellow and the only child. His mother who was formerly Miss Maggie Easley, and father, Mr. Shuttleworth, were reared in this county.

The funeral services were held at the Methodist church Saturday afternoon at one o'clock, conducted by Rev.
Vergil Elgin and the interment at the new cemetery.

Louisville Letter

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 20, 1906.
To the Editor of The Record,

DEAR SIR:—Allow, if you please, one who is a subscriber to your valued publication, to "chirp in" for a few minutes, to second your various motions for the betterment of Marion and the mining district. In the first place, your suggestion of the organizing of a Commercial Club (perhaps I should say a renewal of the old club, for I understand previous to the big fire there was in force such an institution) is a splendid one and should be accepted with much enthusiasm by every male citizen within the corporate limits, of your beautiful city. I might suggest that in addition to the regular Commercial Club, that there be organized an auxiliary Club composed of the ladies of Marion and the purpose and efforts of their organization should be in the same direction as that of the regular club composed of the opposite sex, only that their efforts should be in the direction of making a beautiful Marion, also to keep in touch with the educational institutions and the like. You know our good women are a power and can accomplish anything if they will pull together.

Now, as to your county affairs, only recently I had the pleasure to pay Crittenden county a visit, and during my six or seven weeks stay, by paying close attention I observed some things that struck me most forcibly. The subject (of vast interest to mine owners) of my observation was the very very poor roads that exist in your county and I wondered whether your good residents were ever asked to pay any taxes. Now I should think that these conditions can be greatly improved. Here is where your Commercial Club and Ladies Auxiliary could do wonders. For instance, say out of the taxes collected each year, the proper authorities, set aside out of the county roads fund, a certain proportion to be expended for the building of pikes or macadam roads. No matter how small the distance each year, still the pikes would gradually take the place of the bad dirt roads. I believe I could voice the sentiment of the whole district, when I say that every mine owner would be more than willing to supply all the rock from their dump piles to the county road authorities, which in itself would be a great saving. Then again, instead of the citizens doing as they usually do during certain seasons of the year, that is, lend their assistance or a substitute to work their roads so many days each season. Let a certain number out of each district haul rock from the nearest mine and then let the rest break and scatter them.
Of course this is only a crude suggestion, but it may be the beginning of a discussion and out of discussion come a more perfect plan.

Keep up your good work of encouragement to outside capital, fan the spirit of a Greater Marion into a glowing, burning, blazing fire. Make each individual feel his importance in that making and it won't be long before everyone will be saying, "My! but isn't Marion growing!" There seems to be an absence of true pride for the district. Put ginger into your business and professional life. Whop them up, if they don't toe the mark with their part tell your inhabitants about the dead ones. Publicity will awaken them.
Let everybody in business support the newspapers by liberality in advertising and getting more subscribers. Everybody on the hustle for six months and see whether or not these efforts are in vain.

Let Marion help the mining men—the owners—to get good roads, in return for the many dollars she gets directly and indirectly from their pocket-ets. Let them stop to consider what good roads mean and doubt that they will put their shoulders to the wheel for all they are worth.

I would be greatly obliged to you indeed, Mr. Editor, if you would publish a strong notice along the lines set out herein and let our mine owners see what we might expect in the future for our money expended, whether to continue to patronize without anything in return. It is time, I for one think, that life be put into this subject and that we get some results for our outlay.

With very best wishes, I beg to remain,
Very truly yours,
ZINC, LEAD & FLUORSPAR CO.

Good Meeting

There is a protracted meeting in progress at the Crayneville church, conducted by the pastor Rev. W. T. Oakley.
The singing is conducted by Mr.
Woodall.

There is quite an interest being manifested. There has been twenty conversion and several additions to the church.

The congregations are so large that the house will not accommodate them.

WILL TRAVEL FIFTEEN YEARS

Edison Solves the Problem of Economical Power

WILL MAKE AUTOS CHEAP

Inventor Describes Long Search for Metal Which Ends in Success

THE HORSE WILL BE A CURIOSITY

New York, Oct. 31.—Thomas A.
Edison has accomplished a surprise for the world. He has worked out successfully the problem of cheap power. He promises to put on the market within six months a new storage battery which will enable every man to travel in his own private carriage at about the cost of car fare. Without danger, without breakdowns, without cost, almost a carriage, once supplied with the new power for $200 will travel without repairs for fifteen years, for 100,000 miles if necessary, says the wizard.

Mr. Edison reiterates the declaration that he has invented a storage battery which will solve the problem of congested traffic in the big cities of the world as soon as he can manufacture enough of the batteries. He is erecting two large factory buildings, now nearly completed, and is installing in them new machinery especially for the manufacture of the motor battery.

SAYS THE HORSE IS DOOMED

"Fifteen from now the horse will be a curiosity; we shall be paying 50c centa to look at him in side shows," said Mr. Edison to an interviewer.

"Last year you were sure you had solved this problem?" he was reminded.
"Yes, last year I was sure," replied Mr. Edison, "but now I am dead sure.
There is a difference between the two.
It's one thing, for instance, to be sure, and another thing to be—Wall street sure."

For three years 25,000 storage batteries have been constantly at work in the test shops of the Edison plant at Orange, N. J.

"I never believed that nature, so prolific of resources, could provide only lead as a material ingredient of the battery," said Mr. Edison. "I have always found her ready for any emergency, and based on this confidence that she has never betrayed, I commenced diligently with her. Then I thought I had accomplished the task." But he hadn't to the satisfaction of his commercial instinct. The question of the weight of the battery was most important as was that of durability.

CORAL SOLVES PROBLEM

Nickel rust failed, other things failed everything the ingenious Edison, with his trained, scientific mind, could conceive failed.

"Then I tried coral," he said, and punctuated the statement with a broad smile.

"And it worked?"
"It certainly did, but coral being one of the rare metals the problem was not solved. I secured the country to find coral in sufficient quantities to warrant its use and discovered lots of it in Canada, in Wisconsin, in Oregon and in Kentucky. Then I knew that I was all right."

"What are you working at now in connection with this phase of the discovery?"

"One of the most difficult problems in metallurgy is to separate coral from the ores with which it is associated. At present it is done only at a great expense, and so for the last few months we have been devising a plan of getting coral out of the ore cheaply within a ratio of cost already calculated for the price of each cell."

SUCCESS COMES AT LAST

"And you have succeeded?"
"Completely. I can positively promise that the new battery will be on the market in the spring. The factory buildings are ready and the machinery is being installed."

"But there may be some surprise that nature is holding back that will interfere?"

"Absolutely none. I haven't kept 25,000 batteries working for three years without discounting all chances of failure."

The actual cost of recharging the new battery is a matter of a few cents per cell, the greatest achievement being in making it light in weight, in compact shape and above all, durable.

The new storage battery is not designed for fast automobiles.

"But I am not an automobile manufacturer, and I have thought only of solving the problem of street traffic, which is serious in all the great cities of the world," says Edison.

HAPPENINGS IN THE MINING DISTRICT

Work Being Pushed on the Leander While Property

The Memphis mine is steadily raising their output of No. 1. spar.

Shipments of spar from Mexico during the past week have been above the average.

The stock of spar now on the railroad will not last much longer than Feb.
1st, 1907.

The Edwards Mining Company are hard at work sinking a shaft on their valuable property.

The Marion Mineral Company have just shipped another car of carbonate from their Miller mine.

The steam plant at the Tabor mine is at work and mining nicely. No end to the spar at this mine.

A number of capitalists have been here during the week looking over the district with a view of investing.

The steam plant at the Asbridge mine will be ready for work early the coming week. This is one of the finest mines in the Francis district.

The estimate for a supply of spar for 1907 consumption will be nearly forty thousand tons, and Kentucky is expected to furnish nearly all of it.

The Nancy Hanks people shipped a car load of ground spar and have wagons hauling in for another shipment.
Oh for a railroad to open up the Salem district.

The Leander Mining Company are pushing work on their property and the showing made is far beyond the expectations. Watch this company, they will soon be one among the dividend payers.

CAREER OF L. A. GOURDAIN

WAS CLERK 20 YEARS AGO

Nearly Ruined the Famous Louisiana State Lottery

TALKS OF BUILDING PRIVATE JAIL

The readers of the RECORD will remember several issues back we published a picture of a jail to be built by the man who hoped to be the only inmate.
This man was:

Louis A. Gourdain, the emaciated, luminous eyed parchment-skinned boaster, who has succeeded in keeping himself before the public for upward of three weeks by trying to get himself reincarcerated in prison, has an interesting history. He claims many things that doubtless are not true. He is offended because the authorities refuse to send him to prison while he is out on bail, and talks of building a private jail himself, that he may serve time for evil transactions. The most interesting that is laid to him in the way in which he nearly put the Louisiana State Lottery out of business by counterfeiting the tickets of that notorious concern, writes a correspondent of the New World.

The history of the man as outlined by himself, commences with his birth 40 years ago at Thibideau, La. At 17 he entered the banking and commission business of his brother. He was a son he says, of a colonel in the famous Louisiana Tigers, a crack military organization of the south. Incidentally, he does not make this boast when he is in the south, because of bodily harm that might come to him.

Twenty years ago he was a clerk in New Orleans State Lottery. At that time the lottery was running wide open, because stringent laws had not been enacted against it. Gourdain got $15 a week. This did not satisfy him and he quit the business and outlined a plan to a man who had a little capital.
It was to run a fake opposition lottery.

They hired a room, printed a few million lottery tickets, purporting to be of the Louisiana Grand Lottery, and sent them out to all parts of the country, in $20 packages. These packages were directed to men in each community who were told to sell them and keep 20 per cent of the money and forward the balance to Gourdain before the date of the alleged drawing.

In each package was one ticket in a separate envelope. An accompanying note stated that this ticket was intended for some man in the community whose drawing a large prize would cause a sensation and make customers for the lottery. The agent was told to keep a half interest in the ticket himself. The result was that the agent would keep the whole ticket and forward the money to Gourdain. From this scheme Gourdain made $250,000 before the police raided him and drove him out.

It was when Gourdain's money was running low that he envied his scheme and formed a combination with John H.
Dalton, a Chicago man, and a New Orleans man, who since has risen to such prominence in the community that his name has ceased to be mentioned in the connection.

Gourdain came to Chicago and negotiated with a printer for the manufacture of 4,000,000 lottery tickets counterfeiting those of the Louisiana State Company. This was in 1882.

Dalton's history up to that time is unknown. He was a German who had changed his name, and mystery shrouded his past. Gourdain established headquarters in New York, Chicago and New Orleans, taking charge of the eastern office himself, leaving Dalton in charge in Chicago and allowing the third partner to handle the New Orleans headquarters.

The firm name assumed for the purposes of the fraud was W. L. Jackson & Co., New Orleans.

The 4,000,000 counterfeit tickets were made up into packages containing from $20 to $100 worth each. Into each bundle went a circular letter, the tenor of which was as follows:

"Dear Sir: No matter how old and well established may be, the time comes when it requires advertising, and we have chosen this means of advertising our goods. You have been recommended to us as a proper person to act as our agent.

We are sending you a package containing $100 of our tickets, which you will act, retain 20 per cent and forward balance to us. In a separate envelope you will find two fractional tickets bearing the number. This number will draw $10,000.

Keep one of these and give the other to a prominent citizen who will be willing to make affidavit that he drew a prize. If you as shrewd a person as we believe you to be, it is not necessary to send a hammer with this package to drive the point into your head."

Gourdain's theory that the supply of suckers was inexhaustible was vindicated. The returns began to come in by the bushel. The officers of the company whose tickets had been counter-feited raged and fumed. They finally sued out an injunction restraining the express company from delivering the money packages to Gourdain and his accomplices, and it is estimated that hundreds of thousands of dollars were sent back by the express company to the senders.

As it was, the proceed of the rousp amounted far into the hundreds of thousands, and may have reached $1,000,000. Gourdain started a bank in New Orleans and began to hurl money away. He did not drink, gamble nor use tobacco. He did not indulge in any of the common vices or the unprin-ciple rich. But he "burned" money with a torch in each hand.

His eccentricities were construed as methodical madness for advertising purposes, but after he began to drive through the streets in his sumptuous carriage, attired in his bath robe, he was "interdicted" and sent to the Louisiana retreat, or asylum for insane, where he was confined for a year.

After his release from the asylum he started another doubtful game and served six months in the Topeka jail.
From there he drifted to New York and opened a bank. He was sent to Black-well's Island for a year. Then he showed up at Omaha during the exposition. He was broke, and got $1,500 from a New Orleans man who was willing to risk the money on the promise that Gourdain would make him a millionaire. Dalton again joined him and they bought swamp land in Louisiana and sold it for oil land. They made a cool million out of the scheme.

Now Dalton and Gourdain are both headed for the penitentiary. Dalton besides being convicted with Gourdain for fraud, is under sentence for enticing young girls. It is apparent that Gourdain's attempt to break back, into prison are made for some ulterior purpose, because to remain there when he was in it would only have been necessary to refuse to sign a bond for his release. All he has to do to get back is to get his partner, Jack Dalton, to surrender him on his bond. The government officials believe he is laying some new scheme against the time he gets out finally—for he is sure to serve his time.

IT CAN'T BE FOR MONEY

Salary Only $7.50 Per Year For all of His Time

Rev. T. C. Galtner, of Henderson, Ky., passed through Marion a few days ago. He is employed to travel and work all of his time in the Sunday School cause. In the course of a conversation he made the statement that in Western Kentucky there are more than 100,000 children outside the influence of the Sunday School. He said "We need 1,000 more Sunday S schools in Western Kentucky. During my travels right lately, and not a thousand miles from old Crittenden county, I found a church that had 70 members and yet before last they paid their preacher $7.50. Last year they paid $55 and this year they propose to pay $80."

MARION RAILROAD BOYS

Now Working On The Illinois Central Railroad

Marion boys seem to be of the material best suited to the needs of the Illinois Central Railroad.

Last Saturday a son of the late N. B. Eddings was in town and stated that he was employed by the I. C. as a fireman. He used to be known as "Buster" Eddings and is well remembered by all. Mr. Nat B. Eddings married the sister of Dr. Joe H. Clark and Dr. J. Rial Clark.

Both Mr. Eddings and wife died in Marion and the family since has been somewhat scattered. "Buster" and Cass Eddings live in Evansville. One of their sisters lives in Henderson and one is the wife of Bert Crayne of near Crayneville. These are all that are left of the family.

Speaking of Marion boys on the Railroad "Buster" Eddings said Marion boys who are firing engines on the I. C. are as follows:—Will Morgan, Louis Ringo, Frank M. Does, Harley Carnahan and myself.

Fireman on the I. C. have a better time, easier work and can make more money than fireman on any other road in the United States. I don't think I am doing anything hardly at all when I only make $80.00 per month. It is easy to make $100.00 per month if a man will just work and not lay off.

There are some other boys on the I. C. Buford Cardwell has charge of an engine as engineer, John Travis is a conductor and Cass Travis is flagman.

A Year of Blood

The year 1903 will long be remembered in the home of F. N. Tackey, of Alliance, Ky., as a year of blood; which flowed so copiously from Mr. Tackey's lungs that death seemed very near. He writes: "Severe bleeding from the lungs and a frightful cough had brought me at death's door, when I began taking Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, with the astonishing result that after taking four bottles I was completely restored and as time has proven permanently cured." Guaranteed for Sore Lungs, Coughs and Colds, at Haynes & Taylor's drug store. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

Going Springs

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Lanham are visiting friends in Illinois this week.

Our school is progressing nicely with Miss Iva Hicklin as teacher.

Mrs. Bell James, of Paducah, is visiting her brother, Ira C. Hughes, and family.

Miss Carrie Hughes, of Paducah, visited her old home here last Sunday. Come again, Carrie, we are always glad to see you.

Seldon Driver, Harry Vaughn, Conie Ford and Ena Driver visited at Seven Springs last Saturday.

A good many of our young people are attending the protracted meeting at Repton this week.

John Terry is still making regular trips to Lone Star every Sunday to see his best girl.

Ira C. Hughes and family spent last Saturday night and Sunday with Aunt Susie Gass.

Republican Campaign Text-Book

A departure has been made in the Republican Campaign Text-Book just issued, in that its contents are wholly devoted to live issues, and these are treated in the briefest possible way, yet comprehensively enough to include all necessary facts and figures.

First, there is a general statement of the issues of 1906, followed by a brief review of Republican legislation in general and the work of the Fifty-ninth Congress in particular. The Railroad Rate Law, Pure Food Law, Free Alcohol Law, Employers' Liability Law and the Meat Inspection portion of the Agricultural Appropriation Law are given in full, as is Chairman Tawney's clear explanation of the appropriations.

The labor question is next fully presented, followed by Representative Watson's exposition of Anti-Trust proceedings. About one hundred pages are given to the Tariff, Agriculture and Manufactures, and the tables showing the various phases of industrial activity. Among other subjects treated under the tariff are:

Protection and Free Trade, Customs Revenue,
Foreign Commerce,
Home Market and Internal Trade, Wages and Prices,
Export Discounts,
Reciprocity,
Free Hides,
Revision, etc., etc.

Some half hundred tables give official and authoritative figures down to the latest possible date. The work of the president and administration is then briefly presented, the condition and status of the Philippines, the Panama Canal, the Navy, Postal Service, Irrigation, etc., etc.

The President's letter to Representative Watson concludes the work, which has a copious index of over a dozen pages.

Scattered throughout the book are quotations from President Roosevelt and other Republican leaders. Among these is the extract from Senator Hanna's speech where he used the "stand pat" expression, it being the only instance in the Text-Book where the words "stand pat" are used. A page is given to Mr. Bryan and his views, with the comments of the New York World. A so-called "Prosperity Postscript" is added, giving treasury conditions, trade reports, etc., down to August 1.

For the first time in a political campaign, the Text-Book will have a general circulation, as together with other literature, it will be sent on receipt of one dollar by John C. Eversman, Assistant Treasurer, 1133 Broadway, New York.

Made Happy for Life

Great happiness came into the home of S. C. Blair, school superintendent, St. Albans, W. Va., when his little daughter was restored from the dreadful complaint he names. He says: "My little daughter had St. Vitus' Dance, which yielded to no treatment but grew steadily worse until as a last resort we tried Electric Bitters; and I rejoice to say, three bottles effected a complete cure." Quick, sure cure for nervous complaints, general debility, female weaknesses, impoverished blood and malaria. Guaranteed by Haynes & Taylor's drug store. Price 50c.

TELEPHONE 136

FRIDAY, NOV. 2, 1906.

The Standard Oil Company has just been indicted in the Federal Court at Jackson, Tenn., on 1524 counts. This is showing Standard Oil a nice time with plenty of doing. If they should be fined $1,000 on each count Jackson, Tenn., could have a new court house. Crittenden county magistrates take notice.

"A little sneak thief" is the epithet applied to the mayor of New York by candidates Hearst and he has been called the "mephistopheles of yellow journalism." Thus the battle wages. What do Hager, Hays, McCreary, Beckham & Co. call each other in Kentucky?

U. S. PARIS ANNOUNCES.

TO THE DEMOCRATS OF CRITTENDEN AND LIVINGSTON COUNTIES:

After the solicitations of many friends of both counties and after a careful deliberation of the question, I have decided to offer myself as a candidate for Representative in the next General Assembly of Kentucky. I place my claim before you as a Democrat and subject to your will at the November primary. If nominated and elected I shall strive to represent the whole people and wear the collar of no man or faction, but offer a faithful and impartial discharge of the duties incumbent on me. If you decide otherwise the successful candidate shall have my heartfelt sympathy. Very Respectfully, R. S. PARTS, Lulu, Ky.

A Good Record

Out of all the external remedies on the market we doubt if there is one that has the record of that world-renowned plaster—Allecock's. It has been in use for sixty years, and still continues to be as popular as ever in doing its great work of relieving our pains and aches. It is the remedy we all need when suffering from any form of ache or pain resulting from taking cold or over-exertion. Allecock's Plasters are sold by Druggists in every part of the civilized world.

BITS OF BYPLAY.

The apostle, of Silver from Silver heights to starry heights, comes along with something frequently and the last was in this strain: "I heard a good old brother the other day close his prayers with this: 'Nothing believing, nothing doubting, and let us keep the Lord in the bottom of the seat of our affections.'"

The bright young man at table asked for a definition of a Prince, a monkey, a bald-headed man and an orphan. Of course they all gave it up and the bright young man had to answer. A Prince is an heir apparent. A monkey has a hairy parent. A bald-headed man has no hair apparent. An orphan has no hairy parent. Upon the perpetration of this hairy aged joke not a smile was noted. Only one sound broke the stillness, the table groaned.

It is a fine thing for any community to have good bank cashiers. Marion thinks she has two good ones. It is their place to be pleasant and affable and it is the general verdict that they are, except when a voice over the phone notifies the improvident and impetuous of overdrafts, drafts and other things that send a chill down the spinal column of some we know and others we could mention. But these some we know and others we could mention have a day occasionally and the occasion occurred not long ago. It happened in the court house yard. Mr. T. J. Yandell, cashier of the Marion Bank, stood near the fence and next to Mr. Jess McCaslin. The Browns were preaching and had just raised an umbrella and planted it on the ground bottom up to catch the money of those who would give to their cause. Mr. Yandell said "Let us give something, Jess." Mr. McCaslin said "All right I will do as well as you, what are you going to give?" Mr. Yandell fished out a nickel and a fifty cent piece. He held the half in sight, but concealed the nickel in his hand intending to hold on to the half and drop the nickel. Mr. McCaslin searched all his pockets and could not find but 30c. "I'll throw this in if you will yours." "All right," "You throw first." "No, you first."

"Let's throw together." "All right." "Here goes." Mr. McCaslin dropped 30c. Mr. Yandell dropped his nickel and despite all he could do the half dollar slipped out of his hand and fell in the umbrella. He came right back over to the bank and ordered Mr. Woods to "collect all those drafts or send them back."

Harvey Mulhall was all right. He is gone now and it is safe to tell. Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Shrode were "setting up" to housekeeping. This little piece of furniture was simply lovely and that was grand and this little oil stove was so cute. Harvey Mulhall was going to live with them. Mr. and Mrs. Shrode and Harvey were all planning what each was to do. Mr. Shrode's work should be this and Mrs. Shrode's that and now Harvey, what will you do? "I'll carry wood for your oil stove," said Harvey.

"It is better born lucky than rich." So thinks Uncle Joseph W. Adams. Oct. 10th he had a birthday and on that day some good friends ordered the coal man to deliver 200 bushels of good coal into his coal house and the aforesaid good friend would pay the bill. If we had a dozen guesses as to who Uncle Joe's friend was we would guess one man a dozen times.

AMONG OUR CHURCHES

The Sermon at the Presbyterian church last Sunday was on the subject of "Inspiration." It was an exposition of the Westminster Standards on the doctrine. The text was 2 Tim. 3:16. "All scripture is given by inspiration of God." The subject was treated under the following heads: The nature of the scriptures. Nature is not sufficient to teach man the way to God, hence God has given man the light of Revelation. This includes the doctrine of inspiration, which was taken for the subject of the evening sermon. The scriptures have the authority of God. This was the claim and they made it good by the wonderful productions they had given us. The contents of scripture were next discussed, this was done under the answer to the question of Shorter Catechism, "What do the Scriptures principally teach? The Scriptures generally teach what a man is to believe concerning God, and what duty God requires of man." The sermon at night was the doctrine "Inspiration." A statement of the doctrine was given, and then a proof was established from the fulfillment of prophecy, that scripture is inspired.

Mr. and Mrs. John L. Shrader very delightfully entertained a few friends on Hallow'een night.

Several contests were engaged in and the fortunes of all the guests were told.

Some "spooks" slipped into the dining room and devoured the lunch so that part of the program was left off.

The guest were, Misses Nellie Love, Susie Gilbert, Atta Copher, Ora Hedges, Mabel Guess, Pearl Doss, Ned Cassatt, Maude Hurley and Mrs. J. W. Flynn. Messrs. Claude Lamb, Cressel Taylor, Bruce Babb, Chastain Haynes, John Sedbury, Clarence Franks, Virgil Carleton and Alvis Stephens.

Lawn Tennis and Tennis.

There are thousands who imagine that tennis and lawn tennis are identical. In America tennis, the mother game, is always known as "court tennis," whereas lawn tennis is generally known as "tennis." The games are in many respects very different.

The court, which in lawn tennis is open, in tennis is closed at the back and sides by the walls, and almost invariably above by a roof. There is a considerable amount of play off the back and side walls. The balls are harder than lawn tennis balls, being, in fact, of the consistency of cricket balls. Hence the rackets are heavier and the gut is thicker.—Fry's Magazine.

E. W. Crider

Quieted Him.

She was going away for the summer and of course she wanted a new parrot.

"And as to the handle," she mused "I want something nobby. Do you think the head of a bird would suit me?"

The big husband looked up from his paper and grinned.

"Most assuredly, my dear," he chuckled, "if the bird is a parrot."

She flushed deeply.

"Is that so?" she retorted, sharply. "Well, sir, I am going to get you a cane for a birthday present and I shall make sure that the handle suits you in every particular."

"Ah, indeed! What kind of a bird or beast will it represent?"

"Neither bird nor beast. It will represent a lobster."

Insisted on Being "Boss."

A new "Mark Twain" story is going the rounds. The humorist takes long rides in the country in his auto, and one day the mud was so deep that the machine stuck in it. On a railroad near by an Irishman was seen bossing a gang of Italians. "I called to him," said Mark, "and he brought the whole bunch over to lift the machine out. We clashed right away. The Irishman insisted on beating the ob and I wouldn't stand for it. 'All right,' said the Irishman, and he took his men back to the railroad. There was nothing for me to do but give in. I sat in the car for about an hour and then called for the Irishman to come back. 'Am I to be bossed?' he asked. 'You are,' I said. And he was."

Woman Loyal to the End.

A striking case of forgiveness extended to a murderer to the extent of absolving him from justice occurred recently in Paris. A handsomely dressed young woman, Mlle. M. Guiller, was found in the street dying from the effect of a stab in the breast, and later in the day she expired in a hospital. But not a word could be extracted from her as to the identity of her murderer. "He did it in a fit of jealousy," she said, "and because he loved me." The last words to pass from her lips were: "I pardon him." She gave up her life, but not her murderer's name.

Blouse Made at Home.

Watch for the remnants of the pretty pale-tinted batistes, and of these make separate blouses. For these the prettiest way to combine lace is to take an all-over valenciennes, with a small design rather widely scattered, so that one-quarter yard will make about 12 medallions. Haste these between whatever tucking you may indulge in, and embroider a vine or a wreath of small flowers around the edge, then cut away the material beneath and a very dainty waist will be the result.—Vogue.

Mr. Masterson Answered.

Rev. Mr. Masterson, a summer resident of Marblehead, N. H., for reasons best known to himself, wears in the hottest weather a long coat and a handkerchief around his neck. Thus dressed he frequently takes long runs about town, but has decided objections to being stared at. One day recently he was running along, and, noticing a small boy gazing at him, he stopped and asked questioningly: "What are you looking at?" The boy promptly replied: "I'm looking at a d-n fool."

Bachelor Maids' Union.

Young girls are less eager to marry than they used to be, says a writer in The Lady. At one time a girl who remained unmarried when she had been out one or two seasons was almost a reproach to her parents, and an unfashionable blot on the marriage market. But the unmarried have tacitly formed a union, which has as its motto the standard of the day: "The grace of their state being lowered."

The New Sun Pudding.

A new and attractive mold for gelatin or any dessert of the consistency of cornstarch is in the shape of a circular sun, with the genial features of old Sol on the surface.

Teeth and eyes cut from the meats of nuts and pressed into the pudding just before serving complete the effect.

Smart.

"There are five shillings," said the old gentleman to his young grandson, "one for each of your birthdays. What more could a little fellow like you wish?"

"Only that I was as old as you, grandpa," replied the young financier.—Cassell's Journal.

Couldn't Pass Her.

Lady—Why in the world are you bringing the milk at four o'clock in the afternoon? Can't you get here earlier?

Milkman—Farther? Why, madam, this is to-morrow morning's milk!—Detroit Free Press.

Agreed.

"Father," cried the stage-struck youth, "you must let me choose my own course. I feel that I was born for the boards."

"Well, gosh all homelock!" answered the father, "ain't I tryin' ter make a carpeater of ye?"

"It's All Right in the—"

The waves broke in the summer bl with a mournful sound, and the light on the sea made a highway of shimmering silver.

"The voice of the youth vibrated deep feeling."

A striking case of forgiveness extended to a murderer to the extent of shielding him from justice occurred recently in Paris. A handsomely dressed young woman, Mlle. M. Gouvier, was found in the street dying from the effect of a stab in the breast, and later in the day she expired in a hospital. But not a word could be extracted from her as to the identity of her murderer. "He did it in a fit of jealousy," she said, "and because he loved me." The last words to pass from her lips were: "I pardon him," she gave up her life, but not her murderer's name.

Blouses Made at Home.

Watch for the remnants of the pretty pale-tinted batistes, and of these make separate blouses. For these the prettiest way to combine lace is to take an all-over Valenciennes, with a small design rather widely scattered, so that one-quarter yard will make about 12 medallions. Paste these between whatever tucking you may indulge in, and embroider a vine or a wreath of small flowers around the edge, then cut away the material beneath and a very dainty waist will be the result.—Vogue.

Mr. Masterson Answered.

Rev. Mr. Masterson, a summer resident of Marblehead Neck for reasons best known to himself, wears in the hottest weather a long coat and a handkerchief around his neck. Thus dressed he frequently takes long runs about town, but has decided objections to being stared at. One day recently he was running along, and, noticing a small boy gazing at him, he stopped and asked querulously, "What are you looking at?" The boy promptly replied: "I'm looking at a d—n fool."

Bachelor Maids' Union.

Young girls are less eager to marry than they used to be, says a writer in The Lady. At one time a girl who remained unmarried when she had been out one or two seasons was almost a reproach to her parents, and an unfashionable blot on the marriage market. But the unmarried have tacitly formed a union, which has as silently insinuated upon the standard of the disgrace of their state being lowered.

The New Sun Pudding.

A new and attractive mold for gelatin or any dessert of the consistency of cornstarch is in the shape of a circular sun, with the genial features of old Sol on the surface.

Teeth and eyes cut from the meats of auta and pressed into the pudding just before serving complete the effect.

Smart.

"There are five siblings," said the old gentleman to his young grandson, "one for each of your birthdays. What more could a little fellow like you wish?"

"Only that I was as old as you, grandpa," replied the young financier.—Cassell's Journal.

Couldn't Pass Her.

Lady—Why in the world are you bringing the milk at four o'clock in the afternoon? Can't you get here earlier?

Milkman—Farther? Why, madam, this is to-morrow morning's milk!—Detroit Free Press.

Agreed.

"Father," cried the stage-struck youth, "you must let me choose my own course. I feel that I was born for the boards."

"Well, go on all hemlock!" answered the father, "ain't I tryin' ter make a carpenter of ye?"

The warden broke in the summer heat with a mournful sound, and the light on the sea made a highway of shimmering silver. "It's all right in the—" he voice of the youth vibrated deep feeling.
